

Abstract

The present invention relates to dispersible pharmaceutical compositions in which the active agent is a substance P antagonist, in particular a 5-aryl-4(R)-arylcarbonylamino-pent-2-enoic acid amide, that is useful for the treatment and prevention of respiratory diseases including asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, bowel disorders including irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), urinary incontinence, and cough.